Comer Children's Hospital

It's been an exciting year for Comer Children's Hospital at the University of Chicago Medical Center. For the first time, Comer Children's Hospital, which opened in 2005, appeared on the U.S. News & World Report survey of America's Best Children's Hospitals. Comer ranked 20th in the country for neonatal care. The specialty rankings were based on a blend of reputation, outcomes and care-related measures such as nursing care, advanced technology, credentialing and other factors.

The dedication of our staff, the state-of-the-art facility and being part of Chicago BioMedicine are just a few of the reasons that David Gozal, MD, chose Comer Children's Hospital. He has been appointed Professor and Chair of the Department of Pediatrics. As one of the leading pediatric sleep disorders experts in the country, Dr. Gozal was attracted to the University of Chicago, where modern sleep research began.

In a city with several children's hospitals, Comer is the only one backed by the resources and discoveries fueled by Chicago BioMedicine. It is a remarkable hospital treating the most complex patients with the latest technology in a family-centered environment.
